Information on operational changes in measures

Consistent with previous reporting to the Committee on Agriculture, Australia confirms that it does not provide agricultural export subsidies including for scheduled products (Table ES: 1):

- butter and butter oil, cheese, skim milk powder and other milk products and pears.

Australia also wishes to re-affirm the statement made at the 79th Committee on Agriculture, in relation to the elimination of Australia's export subsidy entitlements. The statement is reproduced below:

"Australia would like to make a statement regarding the implementation of the Ministerial Decision on Export Competition agreed by Ministers at the Tenth WTO Ministerial Conference in Nairobi.

In order to implement the elements of the Ministerial Decision related to scheduled export subsidy entitlements Australia will take steps to remove its remaining scheduled export subsidy entitlements, with respect to pear and dairy exports, which were eliminated on 19 December 2015. Australia's existing WTO schedule is inconsistent with paragraph 6 of the Ministerial Decision on Export Competition, and should therefore be amended.

At the earliest practicable opportunity, Australia's draft amended schedule will be tabled for review by the Australian Parliament's Joint Standing Committee on Treaties, which provides parliamentary oversight of proposed treaty commitments. Upon completion of the review, the draft amended schedule will be submitted to the Federal Executive Council for final approval, after which Australia will submit the amended schedule to the WTO."

Israel

Information on operational changes in measures

In line with the Nairobi Ministerial Decision on Export Competition, Israel intends to eliminate all export subsidies by the end of 2022. This is also in line with Israel's position on the need to eliminate export subsidies and a step further to the already relatively-small export subsidies given by Israel, well below its schedule commitments.

South Africa

Information on operational changes in measures

South Africa does currently not make use of export subsidies and it is not provided for in our national policies. We are currently investigating the required legal steps to be followed in eliminating export subsidies from the South African schedule of commitments under the WTO Agreement on Agriculture.

Switzerland–Liechtenstein

Information on operational changes in measures

Switzerland pays export subsidies on processed agricultural products. It applies a price compensation scheme to compensate for the difference between domestic and world market prices which affects the domestic food manufacturing industry through their use of locally produced agricultural raw materials. Only certain basic dairy products and certain cereals used in processed products falling within Chapters 15 to 22 of the Customs Tariff still receive export subsidies.

For 2015, the budget amounted to CHF 95.6 million. For 2016, the Federal Budget provides for a total CHF 94.6 million.

Bearing in mind the decision taken at the WTO Ministerial Conference in Nairobi on export competition, Switzerland initiated the internal process of preparing for the necessary legislative changes while at the same time eliminating the remaining scheduled export subsidy entitlements. These two processes will require parliamentary approval. Moreover, the Swiss Government decided on 11 March 2016, no longer to grant subsidies for processed products exported to the least developed countries.

At the cantonal level, as of 2010, the Canton of Jura granted export subsidies to the breeders of horses belonging to the breeds encouraged by the Canton, in particular those of the "Franches-montagnes" and "Demi-sang" breeds. In 2014, the export subsidies totalled CHF 78,000. The cantonal authority has initiated the process of adaptation of the cantonal law.

Turkey

Information on operational changes in measures

There are no operational changes to affect export subsidy measures. Turkey continues to provide export subsidies to a number of agricultural products in compliance with her commitments under the WTO Agreement on Agriculture. Pending export subsidy notifications will be completed, as was also expressed in the last Trade Policy Review of Turkey, held on 15-17 March 2016.
